

Eight more women of the Bible, the moment everything turned, and what their courage is still saying to yours. Deborah who led without permission, Rahab who bet on mercy, Abigail who walked into the storm, the woman who reached through the crowd, Mary who said yes to the impossible, Lydia who threw open her doors, Priscilla who taught the teacher, and Naomi who survived the empty season. The companion volume: if the first book was about being found, this one is about what you do once you have been.
